

CANNON'S ROAR AND RINGING CHURCH BELLS WAS NEW YEAR'S WELCOME AT OJINAGA

The mail from Mexico has just brought word that W. H. Durborough, staff photographer and correspondent of this newspaper, was on both the federal and rebel firing lines in the last and greatest battle yet fought in Mexico—the desperately fought siege of Ojinaga, when the rebels battled for six days to take the city. Durborough mailed his story and photographs before the fighting had finished.—Editor.

BY W. H. DURBOROUGH.

(Staff Photographer and Correspondent of The Day Book.)

Ojinaga, Mex., Jan. 2, 1914.—

(Within the Federal Lines.)—I have just witnessed the most lurid New Year's Eve celebration of my life. I lay all night in the trenches of Huer-

(Copyright, 1914, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

The Battle of Ojinaga—Photograph Taken by Staff Photographer Durborough on Federal Firing Line on Edge of Besieged City.